Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nishiumi et al., U.S. Patent # 6,166,121 for the reasons set forth in paper no. 6.

Response to Arguments

Applicant has argued the validity of the 35 U.S.C. 102(b) rejection on the foundation that, whereas the reference teaches calcium carbonate treated with a fatty acid, the claims identify only organic acids and their derivatives as suitable embodiments of the treating agent. However, it is the Examiner's position that fatty acids are organic acids. Indeed, each of the compounds exemplifying the fatty acid component of the reference (column 2, lines 12-16) is an organic acid in the sense that they are predominantly comprised of carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen atoms. Furthermore, claim 6, which depends from claim 1, seems to itself indicate that fatty acids are an embodiment of the organic acids presently contemplated. Therefore, it is appropriate to uphold the rejection over Nishiumi et al.

On the other hand, Applicant has successfully obviated the Japanese reference by removing from consideration an embodiment of the invention wherein the calcium carbonate is left untreated.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-5 and 7-10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Nishiumi does not contemplate adding silica to the composition nor does the art specifically motivate one of ordinary skill to do so. Also, the reference makes only cursory mention of the addition-cured silicone elastomer hence claim 4 is allowable. Finally, the reference does not indicate that stronger bonding a silicone-silicone interfaces is achieved with the utilization of the disclosed composition.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
